TRAFFIC CONTROL

highway signing inc

Most Omaha motorists have likely driven through a traffic control project managed by Highway Signing Inc. That's because they readily take on many of the more complicated road construction projects in Omaha. "Our top priority is ensuring that the traveling public is safe when they go through a construction project," said Matt Fatka, Highway Signing owner and CEO.

From municipal to private sector projects, Highway Signing's traffic control services and equipment are relied upon as HSI partners throughout Nebraska. In addition to traffic control they offer temporary concrete and water barriers, pavement markings, temporary traffic signals, digital messaging boards, and water blasting. They are one of only two companies in the Midwest to offer polyurea pavement markings, noted for being uniquely long lasting and reflective.

Fatka believes the key to being an industry leader in traffic control comes down to the team members. "We have incredible people that bring experience to their roles. When you have a team like we do, you can provide the highest level of service."
